Barrington Welcomes Computer Sciences Corporation Mail Transport Equipment Facility Opens in Barrington Adding 120 New Jobs

The Borough of Barrington and Camden County economic development and business services team welcomes Computer Sciences Corporation (CSC), a Fortune 150 company that is one of the world's largest and most respected providers of information technology, to the Borough of Barrington, Camden County. The company plans to hire 120 people at a new processing center in the Barrington Business Center, a redevelopment project of the Borough.

Barrington Councilman Kirk Popiolek, who heads the Borough's economic development effort said, "CSC is a highly respected international firm that we welcome to our community. The mail transport equipment operation will create 120 jobs for local residents and will spend dollars locally boosting our Borough small businesses".

Council President Bob Klaus, who has been involved in the redevelopment plan for the Barrington Business Center and meetings with the property owners looks forward to working on filling up the remaining space in the former Owens-Corning Fiberglass manufacturing plant. "I am excited to see a large 250,000 square foot tenant move into the Barrington Business Center. In these difficult times, for a company to create 120 jobs in our town is very important to the Borough.

"This is a tremendous example of how great things get done when we all work together," said Freeholder Director Louis Cappelli, Jr., liaison to the Camden County Office of Economic Development. "All levels of government, the real estate community and business community have come together to make this opportunity a reality."

“It is a top priority for all of us to attract and retain companies that will provide job opportunities for South Jersey residents and tax ratables for our municipalities,” said Senator Donald Norcross.

CSC is working with the county economic development and business services team and a local staffing company to begin filling the 120 positions immediately. Employees at the CSC facility will receive, examine, route, repair or recycle/dispose of mail transport equipment, and will work to continuously improve equipment processing, repair and distribution functions.

“We are pleased that CSC was able to take advantage of Barrington’s great assets - our location near major highways and our business-friendly environment,” said Barrington Mayor John Rink. “We are glad to be a part of such a great collaboration.”
